The Pregnant Deer

In a forest, a pregnant deer is about to give birth. She finds a remote grass field near a strongly flowing river. This seems a safe place to her. Suddenly labor pains begin.

At the same moment, dark clouds begin to gather above and lightning starts a forest fire. She looks to her left and sees a hunter with his bow extended pointing at her. To her right she spots a hungry lion approaching at her.

What should I do? She questioned herself in terror. She is in labor and loads of questions lingered in her brains.

What will happen? Will I survive? Will I be able to give birth to my fawn? Will it survive? Will everything be burnt by the forest fire? Will I perish to the hunter's arrow?

Will I die a horrible death in the hands of the hungry lion? These questions made her weaker every single moment. She could neither ignore it nor accept it. She is now in pain and trouble.

She is constrained by the fire on one side and the rushing river on the other side. She is also boxed in by her natural predators. What she lacks now is options. Nothing is in her favor. She then decides to give birth and focuses on giving birth to a new life. To her surprise, everything starts to change.

Another lightning strikes and blinds the hunter. He releases the arrow which zips past the deer and hits the starving lion. It starts to rain heavily and forest fire is slowly doused. She then gives birth to a fawn.

Finally everything changed from bad to good and the deer lived a happy life with her fawn.
